Lovejoy Rd. Chap. 90 Project Faces Delay

Because of inadequate public notice of a hearing on proposed land takings for the new Chapter 90 project on Lovejoy rd. in the area of the new Sanborn school, completion of the work will be delayed several weeks.

The situation came to light at Monday night's meeting of the board of selectmen when Town Manager Thomas E. Duff told the town fathers that a hearing scheduled for Tuesday had to be postponed due to the technicality. The hearing at Salem is now scheduled for Tuesday, July 31.

Failure of county officials to properly advertise the hearing will delay the work for several weeks and will necessitate construction work to go on while the children are attending school.

Town Manager Duff said that word of the postponement of Tuesday morning's meeting came through late Monday afternoon, causing the manager to remark: "We could have been down in Salem for nothing."

The proposed construction work is on Lovejoy rd., between Dascumb rd. and Lowell st.

While is cannot at present be estimated how long a delay will be involved, the town manager was disappointed that there would be any delay at all.

"It just drags the job out and puts it off to a point where construction will be taking place while the youngsters are in classes at the new school.

"We made every effort to get this project going and out of the way before school started," he said.

The manager said that a year ago the request was made that the road be surveyed in preparation for construction this year. Money was appropriated in March at the annual town meeting for the job.

"We scheduled a preliminary hearing here in Andover to allow abutters to view plans of the proposed land takings and the work to be done so as to further expedite matters," he asserted.

A three week delay is assured with the shifting of the hearing date from July 10 to July 31. If objections to the proposed land takings are registered, this may necessitate another review by the engineers.

After the plans are approved, the work must go out on bids, these to be advertised for a stipulated period of time. Weather, too, could be a factor in the work later on in the year.

The town manager said that he is still hopeful of seeing the project get underway before the end of the present year.

Water Supply Adequate To Fill All Town Needs

Gardens in Andover are suffering from the prolonged dry spell. Monday's rain, consisting of 64/100 inches, was beneficial to lawns but was not enough to bring relief to produce gardens. What is needed at the present time, according to market garden authorities, is a long, soft rainfall which will penetrate well into the earth.

Andover's water supply is not only adequate to meet local needs, but is able to provide a supply to North Reading which has been hard hit.

Water Superintendent Donald C. Bassett had praise early in the week for residents of the Gould rd. area where some dozen families are faced with lowered pressure when Andover supplies water to North Reading.

The families were contacted by Mr. Bassett on Sunday and informed of the plight of North Reading residents. They immediately displayed genuine neighborliness and said that as long as they received a supply sufficient only for daily needs, they did not object to the town furnishing water to the adjacent community.

All lawn sprinkling and other auxiliary uses were postponed in that Andover area, while the North Reading supply was being replenished.

League Of Women Voters To Conduct Voter Drive

The Andover League of Women Voters has made a survey which shows that there is a large potential of unregistered, but eligible persons in the town who are not on the polling lists.

Based on figures taken from the January 1, 1962, street listing, the league's Voter Service committee has determined that there were 11,211 adults in Andover who could cast ballots in an election, but that there were 2,166 persons as yet unregistered.

The unregistered voters are the object of the league's effort to get out the vote both in the September primary and the November state election.

Over 1,200 postcards have been mimeographed by the committee and are currently being addressed, ready for mailing the last of July, just prior to the meetings of the board of registrars in each of the precincts.

The league is aware that there have been changes in the January figures, due to movement both in and out of town, but the organization is determined to increase the voter registration and also the voter turnout in this year's elections.

The league has found that there are 325 unregistered voters in precinct one, 365 in precinct two, 367 in precinct three, 509 in precinct four, 199 in precinct five and 401 in precinct six.

Precinct four, which has the largest number of unregistered voters, also has had the greatest influx of new residents.

Of the unregistered but eligible voters, the league found that according to the January 1 statistics, there were 711 new residents in the town. There were 863 persons with no particular reason for not having registered.

Also included in the statistical breakdown are 60 persons who are residents of the community, but who are not U.S. citizens, thus unable to vote in elections.

In addition to the league's all-out drive to get voters registered and to participate in both the primary and state elections, the organization plans a candidates' night in October to further spur interest in the 1962 election.

Among the features of the candidates' night will be the appearance of the two candidates for Congress, F. Bradford Morse, and Thomas J. Lane. A change in Congressional district lines, which now places these two top vote-getters against each other in a bid to return to Washington in 1963, is adding considerable interest to this year's election.

Both candidates have signified an intent to attend the October session planned by the league.

Chamber Elects Two Directors

Raymond B. DeRuisseau, business manager of the Andover Townsman and president of the Andover Board of Trade, was one of the two new members of the board of directors of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce elected at a special meeting Monday. He will represent the Andover Board of Trade along with Kenneth P. Thompson, who was Mr. DeRuisseau's predecessor as Trade Board head.

The second director chosen by the Chamber was John P. S. Doherty of Andover, advertising director of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune, who fills a vacancy.

At the meeting plans for expansion of the chamber staff were discussed. There was also a progress report on the chamber's membership expansion program.

Pomp's Pond Is Popular Place

The warm, sunny weather on Sunday prompted hundreds of Andover residents to seek relief from the heat at Pomp's Pond - the town's popular swimming and recreational area. During the high point of the day, more than 1,200 people were counted, and the parking lot was filled to capacity.

Class attendance also is holding up well. The two-week beginners cycle ended on Friday, with 41 children passing the Red Cross requirements. The children who passed were: Ann Marie Babicki, Cathy Babicki, Robert Bartholomew, Raymond Bedell, Carol Borrelli, Edward Bradley, Margerie Campbell, Louisa Clark, Mary J. ## WATER SUPPLY ADEQUATE

Superintendent Bassett reported that the neighboring community had been receiving in the vicinity of 100,000 gallons per day from Andover, all through normal gravity feed operation. The pumping station off Jenkins road has not been employed in servicing North Reading.

As for the recent heavy draft on the water supply, Superintendent Bassett reported it did not present any problem to the town, other than normal distribution difficulties in areas which will be treated and improved eventually through the annual master plan program.

Haggett's pond, principal reservoir and resource for the town, was down about a foot Wednesday, he reported, which, for this time of year places the town in a good position.

A continuance of the dry spell could cause some difficulties later in the summer, but the sudden rains on Monday not only reduced the consumption of water in the community, but assisted in augmenting the supply.

Highest amount of consumption to date was on Saturday when 4,155,000 gallons of water were pumped through the Andover mains. Sunday's draft was 4,076,000 gallons.

The rain on Monday had a decided effect, as the reading dropped to 2,689,000 gallons.

The heavy consumption during the past few days is far from the record amount set in 1960 when during a hot spell, 5,100,000 gallons were drawn through the lines in a day.

Andover's main supply is augmented by two wells in the community, both of which have been in operation on an alternating basis.

Gosh, Imagine That! Speed Cooking At Sea

Radar will do the cooking as well as navigation aboard the world's first nuclear powered merchant ship, sailing on her maiden voyage this summer.

Besides guiding the 22,000-ton N.S. Savannah on her voyages (she can travel 300,000 miles without fueling), radar will also be used in its galley to speed food's cooking and defrosting time.

Operated for the U.S. Maritime Administration by States Marine Lines, Inc., N.S. Savannah will be speed-cooking its meals in Raytheon Company's Radarange Microwave oven.

Chief Stewart Lawrence T. Dooner said the galley will serve its 170 passengers and crew from menu orders, but first-class passengers may order many other dishes not on the regular menu.

"To best serve these passengers, many of them gourmet," Chief Dooner said, "we would normally require several hours or even a full day's notice to prepare some special dishes."

"With the Radarange oven, however, special items ordered in the afternoon can be prepared for that evening's meal," he said.

Chief Dooner said the chef can start about 6:30 readying each meal for cooking. Within 30 minutes after the dinner party is seated, he said, the special dishes can be cooked in the Radarange oven and served.

"Outside of special orders," Chief Dooner said, "the Raytheon oven will also be used to defrost and cook menu items should the chef be caught short at mealtime."

The chef can cook a nine-pound roast in the Radarange oven in 20 minutes, for instance, two hours and forty minutes faster than conventional ovens, he said, and if it were frozen solid it would only take 40 minutes.

The Radarange oven uses high-frequency radio energy, similar to that used by radars searching for surface objects or planes.

The energy penetrates deep inside the food, heating throughout rather than only on the food's surface like conventional ovens.

The food, which absorbs the energy, is cooked rapidly but oven sides and food containers remain cool because they reflect the microwaves.

The Raytheon oven is manufactured at the firm's Hooksett, N.H., plant.

Rockwell Wins Tennis Crown

In an exciting three set match, Bill Rockwell defeated Barry Berchenko to win the second annual Andover Tennis Clubs' Senior Men's Singles, Monday night. Rockwell attacked the net constantly throughout the match, and although Berchenko won the close first set with accurate lobs and forehand placements, he was unable to contend with Rockwell's accurate volleying in the last two. Until the finals, play ran true to form as seeded players in the Andover Tennis Clubs' Senior Men's Singles advanced first to the semi-finals and then into the finals.

In the upper bracket Barry Berchenko, No. 1 seed, used his strong forehand and flat service to good advantage in winning from Ken Lyons 6-2, 6-1, and then defeating the No. 3 seed Al Damon in the semi finals 6-2, 6-4. Damon, an effective chopper, was unable to maintain sufficient consistency against his harder hitting opponent and lost in a hard fought match.

In the lower bracket, Bill Rockwell, No. 2 seed and runner up to Berchenko in last year's final played his usual steady all court game in defeating Ray Valentine and Jack Kyger, the No. 4 seed 8-6, 6-3 to reach the finals against Berchenko.

Summary: Damon defeated Cleveland Gilchrist 6-0, 6-1, Bob Lawrence defeated Joe Sweeney 3-6, 9-7, 6-4. Berchenko defeated Ken Lyons 6-2, 6-1. Rockwell defeated Ray Valentine 6-4, 6-3. Jack Kyger defeated Bob Lawrence 6-1, 6-1. Berchenko defeated Damon 6-2, 6-4. Rockwell defeated Kyger 8-6, 6-3. Rockwell defeated Berchenko 6-8, 6-2, 6-1.

Warning Signs To Be Erected

The Massachusetts Department of Public Works will install warning signs at the approaches to the intersection of Route 125 and Prospect rd. during the month of August, according to assurances given Representatives Roger E. Ingalls and Arthur Williams who requested the action.

There is a school bus stop at the corner and residents of the area have been aroused by a lack of signs on Route 125 to warn motorists of the bus crossing the thoroughfare. This group contacted Rep. Ingalls who in turn talked with Mr. Bixby at the district office in Danvers. An engineer was sent to make an inspection and the order to install the signs followed.

Coast Guard To Recruit For Women's Unit

Rear Admiral Chester L. Harding, USCG, Commander of the First Coast Guard District, has announced the reopening of SPAR recruiting on a limited basis.

The Women's Reserve was first organized in 1942 and many SPARS enlisted from New England and served at Coast Guard installations throughout World War II. Now 20 years later, SPARS will have a part in the Reserve build-up for peace.

High school or business school graduates between the ages of 20 and 30, as well as former service women, are eligible for three-year enlistment in the Women's Reserve of the Coast Guard, for inactive duty, provided they have no dependents. SPARS will be assigned to the reserve unit nearest their homes and attend drills one evening a week or one week-end a month.

Young women with clerical ability are extremely valuable in the administrative offices and can relieve men for operational-type training in port security ratings. SPARS will be enlisted in ratings commensurate with their civilian education and business background.

Uniforms are furnished, and pay and other military benefits accrue to SPARS while attending meetings and performing two weeks of active duty for training annually. This year, each newly-enlisted SPAR will report for 14 days of training duty at "boot camp" in Maryland. She will be assigned duties in the First Coast Guard District Office in Boston for training the following year.

Young women interested in the program may obtain information by writing to the SPAR Recruiting Officer, c/o Commander, First Coast Guard District, Reserve Office, 427 Commercial Street, Boston 13, Mass.

bid, some sort of ground cover should be provided to avoid unnecessary dust.

The school committee members took this to suggest loaming and seeding the area, a procedure which was out of the question because of the cost involved.

At the last meeting of the school committee, Architect Frank Crimp recommended that seven acres, directly in the rear of the high school toward the easterly wing, be fully developed for use in the near future. This action was approved and the proposal sent to the selectmen.

Architect Crimp, Superintendent of Schools Edward I. Erickson and school committeemen John S. Sullivan and Vincent P. Davey met with the selectmen Monday evening.

Board Chairman Russell G. Doyle and Members B. Allen Rowland and James D. Willson gave their approval. Selectmen Philip K. Allen and William Stewart were unable to attend the session.

It was agreed that a draft of the specifications be prepared and after a final review, the project will be placed out to bid as soon as possible.

Posts Open For Engineers

Positions throughout New England will be filled through a civil service examination for engineers to be held soon. Starting salary ranges from $5,335 to $12,210 a year. The vacancies are at various federal installations and research centers in the northeast.

Engineering graduates and college seniors may qualify for the starting positions with a bachelor's degree. Additional qualifications are required for the advanced posts.

Information on the examination may be obtained from the civil service office at the Lawrence post office.

The decision states that the petitioner wishes to convert the property and then sell it to Dr. Stowell who will live in the house and practice dentistry on the premises. The petitioner set forth that there is ample parking available at the location. There was no opposition voiced at the hearing and the petitioner was granted the necessary variances.

Also granted was the petition of Edward A. Romeo, doing business as Fieldstones, 400 So. Main st., for a variance to allow the construction of a 14 x 20 one-story storeroom to the east side of the present kitchen. There was no opposition at the hearing.

In a third case, the board granted a variance to Karl C. Killorin to convert a single-family dwelling at 1 Locke st. into two four-room apartments. The petitioner owns the property which is located in

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Weed Out The Chaff

Another ingredient appears to have been thrown into the Urban Renewal picture - the capital expenditure plan.

The town is having this study done, quite apart from Urban Renewal, and separately, too, from the Planning Board's study of the Urban Renewal area and surrounding territory.

The capital expenditure plan will contain predicted tax rates, based on adoption of the proposed Urban Renewal plan; alternately, there will be a prediction based on non-adoption. Industrial growth, and non-industrial growth, will be figured in also.

The plan will, further, give an expert opinion as to when the town hall and fire station will have to be built, assuming there is no Urban Renewal program at all.

These predictions and expert recommendations will certainly have a bearing on the voters' outlook, when they come to act on Urban Renewal, even though the plan is not being prepared for that purpose. It was contemplated and begun as a project apart from others in the town.

Indeed, it is obvious that the voters will be faced with an abundance of material - plans, recommendations, predictions of all kinds, from many sources. Some of the material will overlap, some will be contrary or confusing.

It is hoped that out of this wealth of data and opinion, it will be possible to weed out the prejudiced or the inconsequential, and come up with a well-rounded picture of what the town can expect if Urban Renewal is, or is not, adopted. Only then can fair action be taken.

Never So Important

The September primary will be interesting - possibly enough so to catch the imagination of some voters who usually do not take part in primaries.

This, we trust, will be the case. Because as is always true, selection of good candidates depends on primary participation.

In September, both Republicans and Democrats will have an opportunity to select candidates for several offices; and the undeclared voters will be left out in the cold if they do not vote in this primary. They will have no room to grumble and complain about the calibre of the nominees, if they do not take part in the selection.

Strangely enough, even as it becomes more imperative for all of us to take part in this selection process, the number of so-called independent voters grows. It should be stressed, over and over, that there is nothing wrong about declaring a party preference at primary time; the voter can remove the party affiliation from the lists, simply by calling at the town clerk's office.

At a time when our state is at the bottom of the popularity lists, because of the exposures of corruption and disregard for the taxpayers' dollars, we should all make it our personal business to select candidates of unimpeachable honesty and ability. This can only be done in the primary.

CAPITOL COMMENT

By YOUR CONGRESSMAN
BRAD MORSE

When the Supreme Court announced its decision in the case of Engle v. Vitale June 25, it started a chain reaction which might well result in a Twenty-Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

The Engle-Vitale ruling, of course, holds unconstitutional the use in the opening exercises of the New York schools of a non-denominational prayer. The Court held that neither the fact that the prayer was denominationally neutral nor that student participation was voluntary could save it from the First Amendment's ban on the establishment of religion.

Justice Stewart, the lone dissenter, declared, "With all respect I think the Court has misapplied a great constitutional principle. I cannot see how an 'official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it. On the contrary, I think to deny the wish of these school children to join in reciting this prayer is to deny them the opportunity of sharing in the spiritual heritage of our Nation."

Announcement of the high court's ruling shattered the relative calm of a routine business afternoon on the floor of the House of Representatives. Members rose to protest that the nation's official motto is "In God We Trust," that our National Anthem refers to the Creator, that both houses of the Congress are opened with prayer. By Tuesday resolutions were flow-

AT THE LIBRARY

Coming Events JULY

17 Story hour for boys and girls, 2:30-3:15 p.m.
18 Record hour for boys and girls, 10:15-10:45 a.m.

Summer Hours

The main reading room is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The Children's room is open on those days from 10 a.m. to 12, and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. The branch library is open as usual, Monday and Thursday, from 2-5 and 6-8 p.m. All departments are closed on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Summer hours are in effect until early September.

Story Hour

Each Tuesday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:15 o'clock there is a story hour in the Children's room, to which all are invited. Although the stories were selected with the six to twelve age group in mind, smaller persons may be seen in the group as the stories are told. Each week there is a theme, and the coming one, on July 17, the subject is "Picnics."

On Vacation

Mrs. Ethel Wilson, Mrs. Pauline Downes and Miss Margaret Lane of the library staff are enjoying their annual vacations.

Let's Listen

This year there is a record listening hour on Wednesday mornings for young people in the Children's room, from 10:15 to 10:45 o'clock. Some recordings are given a little introduction by the leader; others are played for fun, to be enjoyed by each child in his own way. All are cordially invited. The listening hours are scheduled through July and August.

Planning A Picnic

If so, remember that your library can supply you with all types of information: special foods, hints on packing, preserving and keeping flavor in and ants out, safety in the woods and near the water, fireplaces for the picnic in the back yard, games and sports, even a collection of books that are just plain fun when read aloud in any group. It's worth the time involved to come up with something "real special" in the picnic line! And speaking of family fun, the newly added book by S.B. Paxman, "The Family Book Of Fun" should be required reading for parents who want to keep a light spirit in the home, yet work for good manners, self-expression, and responsibility in their children. Bright and clever ideas, for mealtime, holidays, vacations, indoors and out.

Recent Additions

Among the books added in recent weeks to the Memorial Hall Library there are a few that should have very wide appeal for a number of reasons: there is "The Relvers" by William Faulkner, almost Mark Twain in its characters and situations, set in 1905, called "a comic classic"; "Plainville Fifteen Years Later" by Art Gallagher carries on the study, made in 1945 by anthropologist Carl Withers, of a rural village in Missouri. In the registered changes one reads the story of America and its explosive reaction to the world's changing patterns. "East Minus West Equals Zero" by Werner Keller, was written to show how "everyone else has contributed talents to make Russia what she is"; "The Upbeat Generation" by Claire Cox is a thoroughly documented report that sets out to prove that American youth is meeting the great challenges of our era; "Her Garden Was Her Delight" by Buckner Hollingsworth, is a collection of 20 delightful essays on eighteen American and two English women who have made great contributions to fields of botany, gardening and plant research; and a new book by H.E. Brown "Breakfasts and Brunches For Every Occasion" begs us to stop making light of the morning meal; it's filled with all sorts of suggestions and recipes to challenge any homemaker.

Those who enjoy a poke at our everyday way of life will laugh over Ken Kraft's "Give Father A Hard Knock" as they observe Mr. Kraft, Senior, trying to hold onto his authority and dignity in a family situation, while Anne Lindbergh's "Dearly Beloved" takes a different approach to family life, as each onlooker at a June wedding surveys his own life and its shortcomings or successes. If fiction is your only interest in the warm weather, try "The Hands Of Esau" by Hayden; "The Toy Sword" by Cadell; "The Five-Day Nightmare" by Brown; "Portrait In Brownstone" by Auchincloss; "A Fall Of Moondust" by Clarke, and "A Simple Honorable Man" by Conrad Richter.

Your library can offer you all these and many more!

There's nothing quite like a closet. We all wish we had "just one more" and yet the ones we have often turn into unsightly catchalls. Here's a closet checklist to get your spring and summer clothes off to a neat, clean start.

1. Take everything out of the closet: This may seem obvious but many of us make the mistake of trying to reorganize a closet one section at a time. Result: jumble. Instead, empty the closet until there's nothing left but the skeleton.
2. Give it a bath: Closets, like clothes, start out the spring with a wintertime feel and odor. If you sponge your closet with a pine cleaner solution, it will smell as fresh as a spring morning.
3. Sort out clothes: This should include a "throw-out" as well. Remember if you haven't worn a dress this year, chances are you won't wear it next year either.
4. Put away: Store winter clothes in garment bags. Be sure to include a pine mothproof-deodorizer in the storage area.
5. Switch over: When you hang spring and summer clothes in your pine-clean closet, try this "filing system." Divide the closet - a multiple skirt-hanger will do the trick.

This way, suits and other short clothes will hang on one side; dresses, robes and coats on the other. You'll be surprised what a difference this makes in your closet "neatness quotient." (Hint to wives: If you're trying togetherness with your husband, use this trick to make a "his" and "hers" closet behind one door.)

If you tour the closet shop in your favorite store, I'm sure you'll find even more clues to a neater closet.

Little Stories about Great Hymns

Blest Be the Tie That Binds

Blest be the tie that binds,
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above.
We share our mutual woes,
Our mutual burdens bear,
And often for each other flows
The sympathizing tear.

Rev. Fawcett was moving to a large church in London. Around the wagons stood his parishioners, weeping over the loss of their beloved pastor. He and his wife were also in tears. At last she said, "John, I cannot bear this; I know not how to go!" He replied, "Nor I either. Nor will we go; unload the wagons." Fawcett then wrote from his heart, this gentle, neighborly hymn, and remained in Wainsgate until his death.

Mortgage loans have improved greatly

In old-time melodramas the villain was often the man who was about to foreclose the mortgage on the old home.

But, today, mortgage loans are different. A Lawrence Co-operative home loan, for example, is definitely your friend, helping you comfortably to achieve outright ownership of the home you build or buy.

Instead of writing loans to be paid off completely in a lump sum in a few years, we stretch your loan out for 20 or 25 years, and arrange for easy rent-like payments, which you can meet comfortably, including interest.

Here you get prompt and pleasant service, with low initial charges and the privilege of reducing your total interest costs by making advance payments any time you are able. Your interest rate or loan payment can never be raised.

Green Thumb Tips

There are any number of beautiful grasses which may be grown from seeds and used for winter decoration indoors. Cloud grass, quaking grass, fountain grass, animated oats, and panic grass are some of the fascinating names. Why not plant seeds of some of these grasses this spring?

Unusual in gardens, yet easy to grow is the Inca's Flower, more commonly known as Tillandsia. Bright red-orange flowers on stiff stems, from August to frost, on plants about 4 feet high make this a perfect plant for screening or for the background of a border of annuals.

Pick summer squash when they are small and keep on picking them. Production of the plants is greatly reduced when the first fruits are allowed to grow too large.

Council Apposes Forest Taking

"Multiple use of forests" may be the ultimate solution to a new and serious problem: a tremendously expanding population in an unchanging land mass, says the New England Council.

Forests, in addition to growing trees, can furnish outdoor surcease from life's labors. Rundown farmsteads make attractive summer homes for city families.

Agricultural land accessible to new highways may lend itself to industrial development. Some abandoned farms and upland pastures can be re-established as commercial forests.

In many instances the same tract of land can be used for two or more purposes, if not simultaneously, then sequentially over the seasons of the year, or perhaps, from year to year.

To discover opportunities for multiple purpose use of forests and other natural resources marshals the very best of traditional Yankee ingenuity - the ability to make do with what one has at hand.

That there will be increasing pressure on land seems inevitable. Population is increasing rapidly. In this country and in most other countries as well, while land area, of course, remains the same with few exceptions because of drainage and reservoirs.

That is the reason The New England Council is taking a long look at a plan calling for the taking over of a quarter million acres for the establishment of a National Park in Maine's Allagash Forest country. It is a plan that would oust loggers of many lumber companies as a protective device for campers and tourists and would have an adverse effect on many dependent industries and communities.

The Allagash country, made up of the drainage basin of the Allagash River in the northern part of the state, contains few people but an abundance of vitally needed lumber.

It is generally felt that the Allagash Forest country should be left in the hands of private ownership, with owners sponsoring more recreational developments.

This situation goes to the heart of a major problem confronting every community in all six states of the region: how to plan for more people with less natural resource facilities.

ON WESTERN TRIP
Mr. and Mrs. James Schofield of Brookline, formerly of Andover, left recently by bus for a Western trip which will take them to Canada, thence to Yellow Stone Park, San Francisco and the World's Fair in Seattle, Wash.

PERSONAL
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cole have returned to their home on High st. after enjoying a vacation at their cottage, Lake Wentworth, N.H.

Weeds are easiest to remove when they are small. When they get big and tough, it takes a lot of pulling or hard hoeing to get them out.

Soil is a peculiar substance. It can be ruined for the season so easily. All you need do is to try to work it, cultivate it, turn it over before it is ready and oops! you've done it - made it hard to handle for the rest of the growing time.

So, before you try to do anything more than look at the soil in your garden, make a mud pie test to determine its condition.

Pick up a handful of soil and squeeze it. If it forms one firm mass, forget about turning it over and wait awhile. If it won't form such a mass, but instead crumbles when you open your hand, it's ready to cultivate, so go right ahead.

"Jaywalking" Meeting At Danvers

An "anti-jaywalking" meeting for city and town officials is to be held at the District 5 office of the state Department of Public Works in Danvers on Tuesday at which time they will be acquainted with the new law and the Uniform Traffic Control manual which is up for local adoption.

Commissioner Jack P. Ricciardi will head a group of highway traffic engineers who will speak at the session, the fifth in a series being held throughout the Commonwealth. District 5 includes Andover and other Greater Lawrence communities.

Ricciardi pointed out that since the recently enacted "anti-jaywalking" bill is permissive, and that each city and town must decide for itself whether it is to adopt the uniform regulations or not, that all communities fully understand what is entailed in adoption.

The Danvers meeting is the one of nine already scheduled across the state. Commissioner Ricciardi said more would be scheduled if necessary.

District Engineer Harold F. MacWilliams reports an active response to invitations from cities and towns throughout the District.
